TOUR NAME

The Tuscan Village of Lucca

Drive through the lovely Tuscan countryside to the city of Lucca, birthplace of the composer Puccini. Lucca is enclosed by massive red brick walls, which give the city a special character and effectively remove it from the bustle of the modern world. The walls are among the best-preserved defense structures of Renaissance Europe. Inside the walls, Lucca is a peaceful city of narrow roads and medieval houses, and its layout has been kept according to the original Roman plans. Your walking tour today allows you to admire the Cathedral of San Martino with its richly adorned Romanesque façade. Stroll along the Via Fililungo, little Lucca's version of the Via Veneto in Rome, where lovely shops line the street. Visit Piazza Mercato—once the site of a bustling market but now a broad plaza that occupies the former site of the ancient Roman theatre. It is surrounded by fascinating medieval houses built against the wall of the old amphitheatre and its shape is quite unmistakable. Enjoy free time for browsing or shopping on your own .
